Extention for floor box

Type: STAKOHOME-7700-2 extention+ rubber black cover

Description:

The body is made of solid PVC + rubber black cover. The extension is designed for floor sockets STAKOHOME-7702-A, STAKOHOME-7704-A.

Attachment as protection against dust and dirt, for example. Due to the holes in the upper part for the cable, there is no longer an IP67 protection.

Note: This accessory must be purchased (if required).

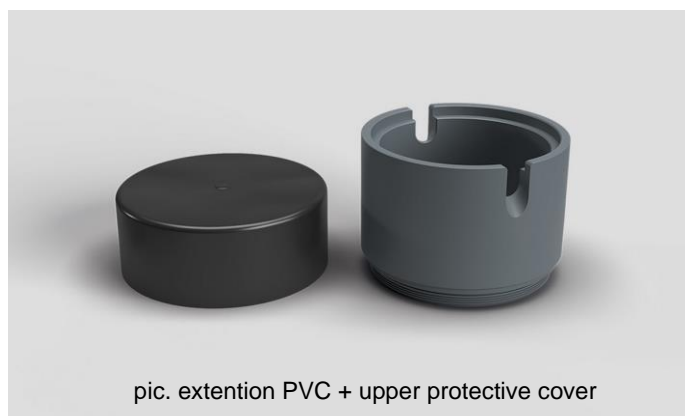

Fields of application: Outdoor and indoor.

Technical data:

Material: Body from PVC-U + rubber cover
PVC-U: Special features: No plasticizers, good mechanical strength
Size of PVC body: Ø170 x 120 mm (hight)
Size of rubber cover: Ø174 x 62 mm (hight)

If an extension is used, the aluminum cover is unscrewed and the appropriate extension is screwed (as far as it will go) onto the floor socket instead of the cover. The inside of the socket (threads) must be clean and free of dirt. Remember to have a seal (included) on the attachment.

Then the required device is connected, the cables are passed through the holes in the adapter and the lid can be placed (can no longer be screwed on) back on the adapter. The black rubber cover is pulled onto the attachment. The connected cables (from appliances / equipment) pass through the holes in the PVC extension and under the black protective cover downwards. The lid (which is not screwed in the attachment) can be left in the attachment to strengthen the upper surface.
